Glen-Coa Gleanings

Two more of our young people have left us for the time being, namely, Misses Solveig and Arlene Steffensen. They are attending University at Edmonton this year.

We regret to report that Miss Genon Theroux, teacher of Coal Springs School, is ill in the Viking hospital with rheumatic fever. We certainly wish her a speedy recovery. In the meanwhile, Mrs. Likness is carrying on for her at the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Little and small daughter, Gail, are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Larson. This is Mrs. Little's first trip home from Ontario for several years. Welcome home, Florence!

Mrs. S. Hjelte, from Everett, Washington, is visiting the Likness home. Her mother, Mrs. G. Likness of Viking, is making her home with her sons for the winter.

Sharon Ladies Aid will meet at Mrs. S. Nilson's on Oct. 10.

WARNING TO TRUCK AND CAR OWNERS

The Village of Irma has for sometime past, had a By-Law prohibiting parking of trucks and cars in the centre of any street in the Village. Because no notice has been posted to this effect, some drivers question this by-law. However, a law regardless of whether it is posted or not, it is also against the law to park on the left hand side of the street.

Council of the Village.

Don't forget the change in time from 8:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. for the Sunday evening worship service of the Irma United Church.

The regular A.F.U. meeting will be held in the Irma High School Tuesday evening, Oct. 8. Ladies please bring lunch.

Savings Bonds

PURCHASE OF NEW BONDS
LIMITED TO $2000.00
PER INDIVIDUAL

The limit for purchases of the new Canada Savings Bond by individuals has now been set at $2000. Purchases of the new security may only be made in the name of individuals and not in the name of firms, institutions, or in trust for second parties.

The decision to place a limit on purchases by individuals bears out a statement made by the Minister of Finance to the House of Commons last June. Mr. Haley pointed out at that time that, since the terms of the Canada Savings Bond would be more favourable than those available for comparable securities at the time of issue, it would be necessary to restrict individual holdings. If no limit were set, the new security would naturally be purchased in volume by institutions and larger investors for whom it is not intended. The Canada Savings Bond is designed solely as a personal savings facility.

All Canada Savings Bonds will be registered as to principal. This registration is made necessary by the need to control holdings, but will offer protection to holders against loss of their investment at the same time. Further, bonds may be registered in the name of minors as well as adults. It is probable that many purchases will be registered in the names of children and others by those who wish to take advantage of the investment opportunity but who would otherwise be restricted to the $2000 limit on purchases in their own name.

An unusual feature of the new bonds is the privilege of turning them into cash at any time for full face value, plus interest, at any bank. Denominations of the new bonds will be $50, $100, $500 and $1000.

UPS AND DOWNS ACROSS CANADA

In travelling across Canada from Halifax, on the Atlantic to Vancouver on the Pacific, a passenger on a Canadian National train rises from sea level to 2,112 feet at Yellowknife, in the Canadian Rockies, some 3,200 miles from Halifax, and drops down to sea level again at Vancouver. At Montreal Central Station the train is 69 feet above sea level, at Winnipeg, 722, at Sask. 1,589 and at Edmonton 2,185 feet. At Jasper, in the heart of Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies, Canada's largest national playground, where the railway maintains a noted summer resort, Jasper Park Lodge, the train is 3,470 feet above sea level. From From Yellowhead, the highest point, just beyond Jasper, the railway lines makes an easy descent for the 517 miles to Vancouver. Canadian National trains pass through the Rockies at the lowest elevation of any railway by way of the Yellowhead Pass. The pass takes its name from the Hudson Bay Co.'s agent with blonde hair who was known as "Tete Jaune", or Yellowhead, and who was stationed there.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK—OCTOBER 8-12

If there ever was need for a Fire Prevention Week, that necessity has been amply demonstrated by the trend of fire the past year. It is quite true that Fire Prevention is a year round job, but the custom of observing a special week to impress upon the public the necessity of preventing fires has developed over a period of twenty-five years and has become a national tradition.

What would it might be. The loss of 391 lives and $42,000,000 property damage by fire in 1945 should stir every Canadian out of a complacency which threatens our national economy. Appeals to individuals to prevent fires on a strictly abstract basis seem to have had little effect. More often it is only when a person's pocket-book is affected that he begins to sit up and take notice. It is obvious there that, unless the present trend of increasing fire losses can be checked, fire insurance companies will have no other alternative than to increase their rates. In 1921, the average rate per $100 of property against fire was $1.11 and, in 1944, it was 67 cents. In the face of rising fire losses, it is a question how long the insurance companies will be able to operate successfully on these low rates. And there is no doubt but that an increase in rates will have an effect on the cost of living, for modern commerce has been developed upon the ability to insure against unforeseen losses and the cost of insurance enters into everything we buy.

Every Canadian citizen will, therefore be wise to take into consideration the fact that he will eventually have to pay for his own carelessness. He should resolve that the responsibility for such an increase in the cost of living shall not be his. He can do this by being careful about the disposition of his cigarettes and matches, by seeing that the heating equipment in his home is in a safe condition, by not using flammable liquids like kerosene to start the kitchen fire or gasoline for cleaning or other use in the home. By these and many other means, he can avoid the dangers of fire not only to himself and his own family, but also to his neighbor's family. And by keeping in mind, care, prudence and forethought, not only during fire prevention week, but for every week during the year, he can make of his country, Canada, a place of beauty rather than a country where stark ruins lie and gaunt chimneys rise on every hand to accuse him of his carelessness—Dominion Fire Commissioner, Ottawa.

"Some politicians shudder at the idea of opening their frontiers to people from other lands, other people are apprehensive at the thought of removing their tariff walls to permit the entry of goods from other countries."—Sir Montagu Burton.

Easterly Echoes

Mrs. Steve Thompson of Vancouver is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Phil Inklin. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodwin are the proud parents of a baby boy born on Sept 20 at the Walnwright hospital.

Miss Ethel Bacon had the misfortune to get her right hand caught in the wringer of her power washing machine. The result was a very sore and swollen hand.

The farmers of this district are real wide awake farmers always supporting anything that is for the good of all. Messrs. Ben Oldham, Ralph King, Wm. Milton and Seth Oldham attended the meeting of the Central Strike Committee of the A.F.U. in Edmonton on Friday Sept. 27. The main topics being the reply to the Hon. James Gardiner and the continuation or not of the Farmers Strike. These gentlemen were representing the AFU locals of Roseberry, and Paschenedale.

We see that the Misses Freda and Marie Hughes are back from the east for a visit.

Friends of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Wallace (nee Ruth Foster) will be glad to hear they have a baby son, Robert Douglas, born Sept. 22 in the University hospital.

Mr. Norman Willerton received the sad news in a telegram of the death of his father in England. The sympathy of the community goes to Norman in his loss.

Mr. Chester Feers was a business visitor at Carrot Creek last week.

On their return to Burn's Lake from a motor trip thru Montana and North Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. John Berg and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ostberg stopped over at home of Mrs. Ostberg's sister, Mrs. G. Liberson. They also called on their nieces, Mrs. Allen Taylor and John and Carl's sister, Mrs. Bertha Enger also their nephew Martin Enger.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fenton left Friday to attend the wedding of their grandson, Allison Carter in Edmonton. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Campbell that were injured in an auto accident some time ago. Mr. Campbell is now home from hospital but Mrs. Campbell will be there for some time yet.

Others that attended the Lipinski-Carter wedding in Edmonton were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fenton and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Fenton.

We see Noton Co. of Vermilion are busy moving the house and barn of Mr. Martin Enger's to their new location by the highway.

Hopes Strike May End Soon

HOPES HELD OUT FOR END OF STRIKE THIS WEEK

(From the Viking News)

Hopes are held out that the farmers non-delivery strike will end this week. Officials of the AFU and the Sask. UFC section met in Saskatoon on Monday to discuss the strike and are now on their way to take up matters with the Agricultural Prices Support Board with a view of having the Fact Finding Board established.

AFU locals voted over the weekend whether to continue the strike over the 30 day limit which ends next Saturday. We understand that the result of the vote will not be made public until Saturday.

The Viking creamery remains closed, also the egg receiving stations. Just when they will reopen for business is a matter of guess work as we go to press.

A court case on Wednesday afternoon and evening here arising out of incidents relating to picketing drew a lot of public interest. The magistrate reserved his decision for two weeks.

In the meantime, wet weather has retarded harvesting operations. The strike has affected business in more ways than one and everybody is looking hopefully towards a solution that will bring conditions back to normal.

DEMAND MOTOR FUNDS FOR HIGHWAY NEEDS

Renewal of demands that all motor revenues should be earmarked for highway construction and maintenance in this province is planned by the A.M.A.

A provincial director who returned recently from a visit to Montana reported that the state has 8,000 miles of hard surfaced roads. Of particular interest to Alberta car drivers is the fact that in Montana it is necessary to spend all motor revenues on highway improvements and maintenance. The state has to do that in order to qualify for U.S. federal road appropriations.

Officials of the A.M.A. point out that this province with 200,000 more people than Montana undoubtedly could have had several thousand miles of hard surfaced roads now if millions of dollars in motor revenues had been used entirely for highway purposes, instead of being taken into the general fund of the province.

These improvements could have been applied to the entire highway system of the province, giving Alberta better secondary and market roads as well as main highways.

Before the provincial government considers its highway estimates for 1947, the AMA will make vigorous representatives to have all motor revenues set aside specifically for the purpose of building better roads, thus meeting the insistent demands of Alberta citizens and visiting tourists.

Food For Peace

HISTORY HAS SHOWN that war and rebellion have frequently been the direct result of lack of food. People who are hungry are desperate and are willing to attempt any means of improving their conditions, making them a ready prey for unscrupulous leaders and distorted ideologies. It is now recognized that one way to keep peace among the nations is to ensure equitable distribution of food in every part of the world, at prices which will make it available to all levels of the population. With this end in view, the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization, which has proved so far to be one of the most active of the United Nations' organizations has proposed an international granary to be administered by a permanent world food board, combining the work now carried on by U.N.R.R.A. and the international emergency food council.

Stable Prices Are Proposed

It is proposed that world food prices could be stabilized by such a board if minimum and maximum prices were set on foods on a basis of the anticipated supply and demand. In the case of any commodity being in excessive supply, and the price falling below the minimum, the board could buy it up, until the price was stabilized. In reverse, it could place on the market additional supplies of foods whose prices had risen above the maximum. It is also proposed that the board should organize a six to twelve months' food reserve, to be used in case of crop failures should any one commodity be produced in such quantity as to threaten the world balance, the board would have the power to set export quotas between the producing nations. Funds would be necessary for the operation of a board of this nature and it was suggested that these could be raised, in part, at least by contributions from the nations benefitting from its services.

Might Produce Wide Benefits

In suggesting the plan for a permanent world food board, the Food and Agriculture Organization emphasized that development of trade and industry would be necessary for its success, since they provide the money to purchase food. The outcome of these proposals should be watched with interest, for they may have a very important effect on the course of events in the future. Any matter connected with agriculture is also of vital interest in this country and a plan which would ensure stability of prices for farm products would affect a large part of our population. Farmers have suffered much in the past due to world market conditions which are far beyond their control, and a well organized world food board, such as the Food and Agriculture Organization has proposed, might bring considerable benefit both to producers and consumers in many parts of the world.

PREFER THE FARM

Girls Helping Out During Summer Want To Remain

CLARKSON, Ont.—The nucleus of a new "back-to-the-land" movement might be found among a group of "big city" girls who have been spending their summer months on farms in this district about 20 miles west of Toronto.

Comprising university and high school students, typists, stenographers and secretaries, the group generally is well disposed to farming as a career. In fact, some of the girls said they would prefer to marry farmers rather than city men.

"I'd love to live on a farm all my life," was the enthusiastic comment made by petite Claire St. Pierre of Quebec City. Claire, just turned 19, could only say "yes" and "no" in English before she came here and now has a large vocabulary at her command.

"But if a farmer boy proposed to me, I'd say 'yes' any time," she added.

Valerie Charlebois of Fort William is seriously considering giving up her chosen profession as a stenographer because "farming is a lot more fun." And 18-year-old Margaret Willis, a student majoring in psychology at the University of Toronto, said she was quite willing to trade her degree for a few acres of ground any time.

92 Years Old—and Fit as a Fiddle

Run Up and Down Stairs

"I feel in duty bound," writes Mrs. A.J.W., "to express my gratitude for the better-than-expected results my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. He is ninety-two years old, and is as fit as a fiddle. He can nip about, and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel why it is he is always alert and never feels slack. He always tells them, 'I believe it is my regular dose of Kruschen Salts in my first cup of tea every morning.' We always recommend Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my idea, no family should be without Kruschen."

(Mrs. A.J.W.)

Most people grow old long before their time, and many of the neglect the vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness.

The majority of these people could feel so much better and brighter better, if they took a small morning dose of Kruschen Salts in tea, coffee or hot water. That's all there is to it. Lessen the dose or discontinue altogether when you are regular. After that take when you need it. Two sizes: 25c and 75c at all druggists. Ask for Kruschen.

SMILE AWHILE

Hoping to get a rise out of the farmer working in a field by the road, a fellow called:

"Hey, did you see a wagonload of monkeys go by here?"

"No," replied the farmer, "did you fall off?"

Mr. Smith: "I understand your wife is a finished soprano."

Mr. Jones: "Yes, but yet, but the neighbors almost got her last night."

Squire Perkins: Nell after I die I wish you would marry Deacon Brown.

Nell: "Why so, Hiram?"

Squire: Well the Deacon tripped me on a horse trade once.

Small girl (to seven-year-old friend): "Oh, I think you're lots better looking than my daddy."

Boy (true child of the motor era): "Well, I oughta be—I'm a later model."

A doctor's little daughter, deeply interested in radio, glanced one morning into the office where her father was testing the heart and lungs of a patient.

"Getting any new stations, Daddy?" she inquired.

Magistrate: "You cannot drive now for two years, for you're a danger to pedestrians."

Defendant: "But, your honor, my living depends on it."

Magistrate: "So does theirs."

Bride: "My husband admires my taste in hats so much he never likes to have me discard one."

Mrs. Longwood: "My husband also wants me to keep on wearing my old hats, but he isn't clever enough to think up as nice an excuse as that."

Newspaper Contributor (in letter): "I am a speedy worker. I finished the enclosed article in an hour and thought nothing of it."

Editor (replying): "I got through your article in a fraction of that time and thought just the same."

"You can get anything at a mail order house," remarked the lady next door.

"Everything, alas, but a male," sighed the spinster.

In New York the Tailors Guild was told that a man to be well-dressed should have six business suits and 12 pairs of shoes.

Rationing Expected To End When New Book Runs Out

The new ration book No. 6 is expected to be the last ration book to be issued, Prices Board officials said. They confirmed that the absence of the usual application blank in the new books means that it is expected to see the consumer through to the time when rationing will be discontinued. "The No. 6 book lasted approximately two years," a spokesman said. "It is thought the book now being issued will end rationing. That is as far as we can go at the moment."

Nesa, a transparent coating for glass windshields which conducts electricity evenly across the surface, is seen as an eliminator of icing and interior fogging in aircraft. William O. Lytle, Pittsburgh Plate Glass research engineer, is credited with developing Nesa. Tests show no distortion of vision, no material reduction in light intensity and an added strength against impact at low atmospheric temperatures. Nesa treatment can be applied to plate glass, laminated safety glass, and multiple-glazed units. Electrical contact is made through metallic bus bars at the glass edge.

The dogs, which included one valued at over $4,000 comprised four champion bulldogs, a cocker spaniel, and three Welsh corgis (squat, short-haired, terrier-like animals). The corgis are valued at over $1,000. The bulldogs were destined to Duncan, B.C.; the corgis to North Hatley, Que., and the cocker spaniel to Abbotsford, B.C. The seven canaries were destined to Windsor, Ont., and two racing pigeons were bound for Calumet City, Illinois.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Wrong Scent

By GEORGE N. JAMES

FOR the past few days Mr. Ebenezer Twigg has been going about with nose banded up. Just who is responsible for this condition no one seems to know unless it be young Stan Brown, old S. H. Kent, or the Rev. Miles. Anyhow most folks here in Clarksville is pretty pleased to see Mr. Twigg sufferin' that way. They allows it serves him right.

For plain downright trouble makin', Ebenezer Twigg is way ahead of anyone else in Clarksville. Folks blame it on that nose of his. Long and shiny it is, seemin' to fair twitch at the end. On account of this here nasal organ Mr. Twigg kin smell out scandal or any other kind of Ruckus when it's miles away. In fact, this same nose has more than once smelled trouble when no trouble existed.

Just to give you an idea of the kind of person this here Twigg is, there ain't nothin' that is ever perfect in his eyes. He's always writin' letters to the paper, complainin' about one thing and another. One day it's about the disgraceful condition of the long grass in his neighbor's front yard and the next it's about the infernal noise his neighbor's lawnmower is makin'. That long beak of his is forever pokin' into other folks' affairs.

It was a bad day for young Mr. and Mrs. Stan Brown when they comes back from their honeymoon to occupy the apartment right next to Mr. Twigg's. That long nose of his fair quivers with joy, like an old war horse that smells the smoke of battle. Newly married bliss is somethin' that Mr. Twigg can't abide no how. Bickerin' to quarrelin' he kin appreciate but these here honeyed words of young married folks is way beyond his ken.

Mr. Twigg figures that if he waits long enough he'll hear them quarrelin', so night after night he spends with his ear pressed to the wall that separates him from the young couple. He kin hear them talkin' all right, but he hear that sweet little voice of Mrs. Stan and the jolly rumblin' tones of her big young hubby. Howsoever, to Mr. Twigg's disgust, not one cross word does he hear. "This constant listenin' does one thing," Mr. Twigg. He becomes so familiar with the sound of them two pieces that he'd swear he could pick them out of a million.

Well, sir, it's maybe two weeks since the young Browns moved in. Mr. Twigg's early one he hears, "in passin'" by their door on the way to his own rooms. He hears voices and jest from force of habit starts to listen. The man is speakin', "Darlin'," he says, musky-like, "I love you. Every day you grow more beautiful, than ever."

Mr. Twigg's nose twitched with delight. That voice don't belong to Stan Brown. To make sure, Mr. Twigg claps his eye to the keyhole but the folks in the room ain't with-in his line of vision. All quiverin', this here Twigg person starts around and listens. By and by he hears Mrs. Brown's voice.

"You know I love you, too, John," she says, "more than you understand—but what kin I do?"

Mr. Twigg is sure joyful when he hears this. She said "John" and her husband's name is Stan. He must act purty quick. Ah! He would find Stan Brown and tell him to get home as quick as possible. No, that wouldn't do. Husbands were sometimes a mite too cantankerous. By golly, Witness! Yes, sir, he'd bring witness up and surprise the hussy. Flout a love affair when Mr. Twigg's very nose, would she? He'd show her. The trollop!

Mr. Twigg no sooner reaches the sidewalk than he spies sure, Mr. Kent. Here's a bit of luck because S. H. happens to be young Brown's boss.

"Mr. Kent!" calls out Twigg. Then he tells him the whole story. Old

S. H. flares up and says Lord help Twigg if he ain't tellin' the truth. Just at that moment who should come by but the Rev. Miles. On hearin' the deplorable state of affairs, he consents to be witness No. 3.

With Mr. Twigg leadin' the way, the procession climbs to the Brown's apartment. Outside the door, Mr. Twigg holds up his hand for silence. "Then you will fly with me to night, my beloved one," the feller is sayin'. "To the ends of the world," answers the girl.

Mr. Twigg glances significant like throws open the door and the three of them bursts into the room. "A purty occurrence," meers Mr. Twigg. Then his mouth falls open and he stands there gapin', his face the color of a ripe tomato. There they are, Mrs. Stan Brown and her husband, Young Stan Brown glazes. "What the devil," he asks, "is the meanin' of this intrusion?"

Old S. H. Kent looks as though he's goin' to have a stroke at any moment. "The fact is Brown," he says, "we expected-er, that is-er, ah, hum—Then he turns on Mr. Twigg. "You air," he belters, "are responsible." Tellin' us another man was makin' love to Mrs. Brown!" "Did he say that?" barks Stan Brown. He did, replies S. H. "Furthermore he brought us up here to testify to her guilt, the snivellin' busybody! Told us a cock and bull yarn about yer wife and some other feller puttin' on a love scene, the rat!"

"I am deeply obliged, gentlemen, fer yer interest," speaks up young Brown. "The fact is my wife and I her becomin' a radio play I wrote. Possibly because I hey to raise my voice to record properly, the righteous Mr. Twigg did not recognize it." As stated afore, Mr. Twigg is goin' about now with his nose in a bandage. Consequently he can't smell so much trouble of late.

Proposed Tunnel

May Be Built Across The Clyde In Scotland
GLASGOW.—The Glasgow project of building a tunnel across the Clyde at Finnieston, debated for 40 years, will probably be abandoned in favor of a cross-river tunnel costing more than $12,000,000.

This is the recommendation of the city's highways and planning committee and the whole council will discuss the matter soon.

In 1857 a formal decision was made to build a high-level bridge costing £1,250,000 but the war caused postponement of construction. Some of the reasons acquired, however. The suggestion that it be used to build new factories.

BID WAS HIGHER
The minister's son was in the habit of going to church every Sunday with his grandpa.

"Billy," said the minister one Sunday, "I've been giving you a dime every Sunday to keep your grandpa from sleeping, yet he sleeps."

"I know," said Billy, "but Grandpa is giving me a quarter to let him sleep."

Rain And Earthquakes

Under Certain Conditions Water Hastes On Hinders Occurrence

Rain can help set off earthquakes, according to Prof. V. Conrad of Harvard University's Blue Hill Observatory. It does not hasten the occurrence of all earthquakes, but only those resulting from the down-bending of rock strata by the slow loading of erosional debris on top of them. The thousands of tons of water that filter down into the ground after heavy rains may prove the last straw in such a loading increasing the strain in the supporting rocks to the breaking point.

Contrariwise, where an earthquake is in the making as the result of forces from beneath pushing up on the rock layers, the added burden of accumulated rain water will push in the opposite direction, perhaps delaying the occurrence of the earthquake.—Science Service.

Mapping The North

R.C.A.F. To Take Photographs Of Saskatchewan Areas

EDMONTON.—Some 40,000 square miles of territory north of Edmonton will be photographed by the Royal Canadian Air Force, headquarters, North West Air Command said. The area extends as far north as Lesser Slave Lake and north east to Lake Dore in Saskatchewan.

The purpose of the work is to provide photographs from which maps of little known and uncharted parts of Canada can be made.

Banknotes are said to be made from old shreds. We always wondered what happened to those we lost at the races.

Cosmic Rays

Think Scientists Could Be More Usefully Employed

The scientists are monkeying with the buzz-saw again. Some of the best of them at MIT are going up 40,000 feet in a B-29 gunning for cosmic rays, which, if a layman understands the subject at all, come in from Lord knows where and explode into particles, called mesons, that are millions of times more muscular than anything released by an atom bomb.

We wish the professors wouldn't do these things. If they should get in the way of a meson, they would be greatly missed; moreover, they have already given the world more knowledge than it can ever comprehend, let alone use, and furthermore, there are so many needed things they might be doing right here on the ground.

Let them invent, for instance the vest-pocket radar the Chattanooga Times is agitating for a device that will tell a shopper at a glance whether a watermelon is ripe. The deuce with cosmic rays!—New York Times Magazine.

MONEY FOR DEFENCE

It is a startling and a melancholy commentary on the state of the world that over one quarter of the United States' new budget will be devoted to defence. Of $41 billions voted by Congress for the year which began July 1 last the War and Navy Departments get $11 billions.

EGGS BY SHIPLOADS

Canada's storage eggs should arrive in Britain this season in the finest possible condition, because they are being handled entirely under refrigeration from start to finish. Regraded and packed at storage temperatures, they are sent to seaboard in heavily iced cars, and shipped to Britain in refrigerated ships by the complete shipload. The advantage of using this new method of the full shipload is that the whole load can be dealt with as one unit and therefore under complete control before and during the voyage and onwards to storage in the United Kingdom.

Do not forget the Irma Rexall One Cent Sale is Oct. 16, 17, 18, and 19.

This is the time of year when the seers and prophets sally forth and examine various local flora and fauna for signs, such as the thickness of fur on the muskrat, or the number of bows on a rose-bush, in order to forecast the severity of the coming winter. Now we wouldn't care to try anything like that, but we did notice that a veteran skip of our curling club is growing a mustache this fall! Would that be a sign of cold weather ahead?

Mr. Bob Kirkman is back in town again and is once more behind the counter of the Irma Co-op.

The Irma Ladies Aid will hold their next meeting on Thursday, October 10 at the United Church Manse. Mrs. McFarland will give the devotionals. Mrs. Smallwood, the topic. Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Jas. Fenton are hostesses.

The Minister of Finance announces

A NEW BOND ISSUE FOR PEACETIME SAVINGS

Canadians are thrifty people. Their record in war financing will stand for many years to come.

Through six years, millions saved and invested in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates in a way no one thought possible. Many thousands learned the convenience of regular, systematic saving, whether in small monthly amounts or by larger cash investment. As a result they have accumulated substantial personal reserves with all that means in increased future security and satisfaction.

Because suggestions and requests have come to me from all parts of the country that facilities for this kind of saving be continued in peacetime, the Canada Savings Bond has been created.

The issue of War Savings Certificates and Stamps to the general public will be discontinued on September 30th, and final instalments on the last Victory Bond issue will have been completed in the near future. Canada Savings Bonds, therefore, will provide an opportune means for citizens to carry on their regular savings habits without interruption.

The general public should note that this time there will be fewer salesmen than in the case of Victory Bonds. Although the new Canada Savings Bonds will be sold through banks, authorized investment dealers, stock brokers and trust or loan companies, these agencies will not be able to approach every individual Canadian. This means that for the most part it will be left to Canadians to assume the responsibility for their own purchases of Canada Savings Bonds. If they wish to grasp this opportunity, they should act for themselves without delay.

Canada Savings Bonds are designed to be the finest investment available to the public today. I recommend them to you as a safe, profitable and convenient investment for personal savings.

I now announce the terms of the new Canada Savings Bonds, which will be offered commencing October 15th.

M. A. Massey
MINISTER OF FINANCE

LUTHERAN CONVENTION CLEVELAND OHIO, OCT 5-12

Five hundred and sixty-four laymen and pastors, coming from congregations of every size, from the smallest mission to the largest city parish in all parts of the U.S., Canada, Alaska and Hawaii, will assemble in Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 5-12, to conduct the 15th biennial convention of the United Lutheran church in America. They will be the official representatives of 32 synods that united 30 years ago to form the largest Lutheran body in this country.

The eyes of all Lutherans and leaders of other Christian communities, here and overseas, will be on these delegates from the "grass roots" of America, to see what steps they plan to help rebuild the Church in Europe and Asia; what policies they adopt toward closer co-operation with other church bodies in the National Lutheran Council, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Lutheran World Federation and the World Council of Churches; and what action they take to rally their membership to combat the growth in secularism and Godlessness throughout the world today.

Looking Ahead

The prospects at the present time are that there will be a lot more farm machinery available for next year than there has been in the recent past. As we are obliged to submit our estimate to the company of the machinery we expect to need for 1947, we invite you to place your orders now, whether it be for a tractor, combine, thresher, tiller, plow, mower, side delivery rake, hay loader, cultivator, milking machine, cream separator or anything in the implement line. 1947 is the Massey-Harris 100th anniversary and never in their history have they had such a splendid line of machines, machinery that has been tried and tested before being offered to the farmer. The M.H. combine leads the field, their tractors are noted for their power and economy, their one-way discs are a favorite of the farmers and now the new ones with the rotor lift is way ahead of anything in the tiller line. Their grain grinder has features not to be found in any other grinder such as the spring worm feed which won't allow the plates to overload regardless of how wide the hopper slides are open, also with full protection against nails, etc. Come in and let us show you the features which are exclusive to the Massey-Harris. No other grinder has them. Let's make 1947 a Massey-Harris year. Yours for service
